Information about the town and/or neighborhood	Palomares del Río is a small village located in the Aljarafe region, in the province of Seville. It has a population of approximately 9,500 inhabitants and is located about 11 km from the capital. This village offers nearby natural environments ideal for outdoor activities, such as hiking or cycling routes. The local gastronomy is a sample of Andalusian cuisine, with traditional dishes.

	It does not offer academies or premises for learning Spanish or language exchange, but in the capital of Seville you can have a wide range of options. https://sevillaintercambio.com/
Getting to school	- Public transport schedules (bus): https://siu.ctas.ctan.es/es/movil/horarios_lineas_tabla.php?linea=308&from=1 - Metro: stop in Ciudad Expo and bus link to Palomares del Río - Possibility of car-pooling with other teachers to the metro. Price: about 1 euro each way with the transport card.
Accommodation	- Link to rent a home: https://www.idealista.com/ - We recommend staying in Seville or Mairena del Aljarafe, as it has many more services and transport. - The educational community could be given the opportunity to host the assistant in the family under suitable conditions for the assistant and the family itself Approximate price of a shared apartment in the capital of Seville: 400-500 euros
