Read again. Match and say the sentences.

The screenshot shows a digital classroom interface. At the top, there's a header "Read again. Match and say the sentences." Below it is a text box with a photo of children in a school garden. The text in the box says: "This is a photo from our Art lesson. We're making a scarecrow for the garden. His name is Billy. We're using old clothes. We need a scarecrow because the birds want to eat the raspberries!" There are also small profile pictures and names: "Daisy 2nd May", "Rosa 12th June", and "Billy the scarecrow!". To the right of the text box are links: "Show more names", "Links", "Our class calendar", and "Homework". Below the text box is a matching exercise with two columns of text boxes. The left column contains: "Year 4 is studying ...", "They're looking for ...", "Lisa is ...", "There are vegetables, ...", "Year 4 is making ...", and "The birds want to eat ...". The right column contains: "a scarecrow for the garden.", "in the school garden.", "minibeasts in Science.", "butterflies, ants and bees.", "flowers and fruit in the school garden.", and "the raspberries.". Blue arrows connect the boxes: "Year 4 is studying ..." to "flowers and fruit in the school garden.", "They're looking for ..." to "in the school garden.", "Lisa is ..." to "minibeasts in Science.", "There are vegetables, ..." to "butterflies, ants and bees.", "Year 4 is making ..." to "a scarecrow for the garden.", and "The birds want to eat ..." to "the raspberries.".

This is a picture of my favourite minibeast. These Red dragonflies are from South Africa. They've got a big head and big eyes. Their bodies are red. They've got four wings and six legs. In this picture, they're flying. They aren't good at walking, but they can fly at 50 kilometres an hour!
