Day 1

We arrived in London at 08:25 a.m. at Heathrow airport. From there, we took the Piccadilly line to Green Park, the nearest station to our hotel. We confirmed our arrival to get our keys and then we went to our rooms to leave our luggage there. Our first destination was the Wax Museum Madame Tussauds. First of all, we took the Jubilee line at Green Park station so we could arrive at Baker Street station which is near the Museum. Once we got there we showed our tickets in order to enter. We had an amazing time and took pictures with the figures of a lot of famous people we admire.

Day 1 (II)

When we went out of the museum we were hungry. We found a restaurant called Bill's Baker Street that was pretty near to the Madame Tussauds Museum and we decided to have lunch there. Everything was delicious, we all loved that restaurant. Right after we finished lunch we had a walk and we went to The British Library. Then we went to Baker Street Station and we took the Metropolitan line to King's cross St. Pancras and there we took the Northern line to Camden Town station. After we arrived, we went to Camden Town market and we looked for clothes we liked.

Day 1 (III)

Once we had a very long walk around the markets and bought some clothes there we went back to Camden Town station and there we took the Northern line to arrive at Monument station. Once there, we took the District line to South Kensington station. When we arrived we went to London Science Museum. It was incredible! We saw a lot of interesting things. Then we took the Piccadilly line at South Kensington station to Green Park station. Later, we went to the Ritz Restaurant to have dinner. We loved it! After that, we went to Judith's room and we spent some time talking. Finally, when it was late we went back to our rooms and we fell asleep until the next morning.

Day 2

Our second day in London was great! First of all, we had a very tasty breakfast in the hotel. After that, we went to our room in order to prepare for our day. Next, we went to the Green Park underground station, which was near our hotel, but first, we visited Green Park, which was amazing and incredibly giant. At the station, we took the Victoria line, and we went to King's Cross St. Pancras station. Once we had arrived, we walked for 2 minutes and saw the platform 9¾, which is famous due to Harry Potter. Then, we walked around the place until we felt hungry.

Day 2 (II)

We had lunch in a restaurant near the station called Plum and Spilt Milk. After that, we went to St. Pancras station, we took the Victoria line and we went back to Green Park station. There, we took the Piccadilly line. We went to Hyde Park Corner. We visited Hyde Park and we saw a Peter Pan statue there. Next to it, we had a picnic and we saw many squirrels. After, we took the underground and we went back to Green Park station, where we took the Jubilee line in order to go to Baker Street. There, we visited the Sherlock Holmes museum.

Day 2 (III)

After that, we went back to the Baker Street station and we took the Jubilee line and we went to Westminster. There, we saw Big Ben and we went to the London Eye. We rode it and there we saw one of the best sunsets of our lives. Next, we had dinner in a restaurant next to the London Eye called Gillray's Steakhouse. After, we went to the hotel to have a shower, using the Jubilee line. We went to an ABBA Voyage concert, but we didn't get there with the underground, we were late, so we took a taxi. We enjoyed the concert so much. We took another taxi and when we arrived at the hotel, we fell asleep immediately.

Day 3

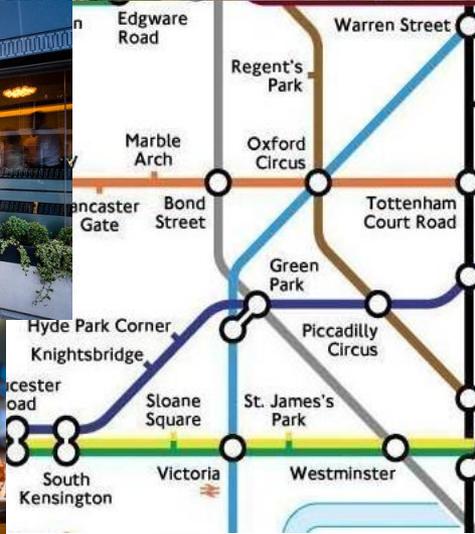

Our third day in London was full of different activities to do! First of all, we had a quick and delightful breakfast at the hotel, and right after that, we headed off to the Green Park station to take the Victoria line. Once we arrived at the Victoria station, we went straight to where our tour guide was as he was giving us a tour of Buckingham Palace. We got to step inside this historic building and learn about its story, which was a real privilege and an unforgettable experience. What's more, we bought some keychains from the gift shop and saw the changing of the guards!

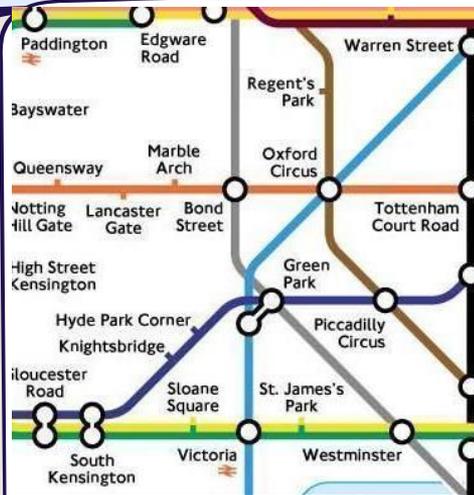

Day 3 (II)

When we felt like having lunch, we opted to go to an Italian restaurant called Tozi. Once we were done eating, we went back to the Victoria station, took the Victoria line, and ended up arriving at the Oxford Circus station. Afterwards, we took the Bakerloo line and arrived at Regent's Park. There, we sat on the grass and listened to some live music and then went on the pedal boat around the lake. Everything was unbelievably relaxing and beautiful.

Day 3 (III)

After that, we went back to the Oxford Circus station and took the Victoria line in order to get to the Green Park station and visit Piccadilly Circus. Once we were there, we saw the magnificent Anteros Statue and went shopping at Lillywhites, which is one of the biggest and most important sporting stores in the UK. When it got dark, we decided to take some photos with the astonishing Piccadilly lights. The illuminated advertising hoardings are similar to those which you'll find in Times Square in New York and are completely mind-blowing.
