

PODCAST

Good morning, I'm Pablo and I'm going to interview a witness of a strange thing that happened in this highschool.

Well, I was said that you were of a sort of scary movie. Can you tell us what happened that day?

When I got up, I didn't expected that something like that could happen.

How did it start?

We were called suddenly by the Reading teacher. We had to go to a classroom because I and my partners were going to be told why its walls were burnt.

Was it because someone or something?

All began with a girl who used to suffer bullying. She was alone in the class when two classmates locked the door and fired the room.

Could she survived?

No, unfortunately she couldn't.

What happened next in the narration of your teacher?

When the story finished, three girls costumed as a ghost swang the door open. They said that they were the girl who died in the classroom and her partners. We all shouted until the teacher told us that it was a joke.

Since then, every year the students of first year of Secondary School are brought to the class and are told the story.

But, if this story isn't true, what really happened to the classroom's walls?

The walls are made up of cork, because it was the music classroom. This cork hasn't received any products to avoid its deterioration, so it has changed its color, so it looks like if it was burnt.

We hope that you have enjoyed this podcast made by Mehdi Lhimer and Pablo Bertos.