

Who is the first person you talked to this morning?
Report the actual conversation.

The first person I talked to this morning is my son. He greeted me and apologised for taking too long in the shower. I offered him some bacon and eggs for breakfast and he wondered if I had cooked them. I nodded and added that nobody else could have done it.

Then, he asked me for money alleging he needs it for the school trip. I refused to give him any money since he is not saving a single penny and I urged him to stop buying unnecessary things on Wallapop. He admitted spending 15€ on an old VHS tape and promised not to do it again. I advised him to start saving money now.

I reminded him to take his school packed lunch. Then, he said goodbye and left for school.

Actual dialogue:

Son: Good morning,
Dad: Good morning.

Son: Sorry to keep you waiting.
Dad: Would you like some bacon and eggs for breakfast?

Son: Sure, did you cook them yourself?
Dad: Who else could have done it?

Son: Dad, can I have some money for the school trip?
Dad: No way, you are not saving a penny. You have to stop buying unnecessary things on Wallapop.

Son: Ok, I only bought an old video tape for 15€. I won't do it again.

Dad: You should start saving money... Well, don't forget your packed lunch.
Son: Good bye.